Live at the Caravan Salon Düsseldorf: The concept vehicle "Lounge" – based on the Lyseo TD – interprets the Bürostner maxim of "Travel small, live large" in a different way.

- New Lyseo TD prototype "Lounge" with sideways push-out dinette
- Home from home feel factors: maximum space utilisation, a multifunctional approach and comfort.
- "Cosy living room and comfortable bedroom" on the road – a lounge on wheels

Düsseldorf. At the Caravan Salon in Düsseldorf, Bürostner will show its concept motorhome "Lounge" with a push-out mechanism that creates a completely new habitation ambience, ideal for couples who value a spacious living and a comfortably-sized sleeping area.

"With our 'Lounge', we have reinterpreted the concept of 'Travel small – live large!', and elevated it to the next level. Drop by and explore our new living room on four wheels – a vision of unparalleled spaciousness," says chairman of the Bürstner management board Jens Kromer.

The concept vehicle's highlight feature is an innovative mechanism for creating more space by pushing out the lounge dinette sideways. Thanks to a sliding table that can be stowed away and an innovative push-out sofa bed, the room concept effortlessly converts into a bedroom – a completely new form of flexibility.

A sideboard with a pop up TV lift positioned opposite the bed ensures that you can also enjoy your home comforts whilst on the road. An insulated sandwich construction floor guarantees a comfortable habitation temperature at any time of the year, and also provides additional storage space. A new entrance element with a glass-fronted compartment completes the timeless, modern design.

Never before has that home from home feel been so convincing: the "Lounge" concept car offers maximum utilisation of the available space without any compromises in terms of comfort and a multifunctional approach, thereby achieving the #wohnfühlen home from home feel that is typical for Bürstner.

Exhibition visitors can experience the "Lounge" concept vehicle with push-out mechanism live at the Caravan Salon in Düsseldorf from 26 August to 3 September 2023.
